

Your clients may face family law, estate planning, licensing, or personal injury issues that involve animal law-related litigation or administrative hearings. Now you can be prepared.

Keep up to date on animal law developments and be ready to advise clients grappling with concerns that affect a variety of adversarial, administrative and planning considerations. Explore a variety of legal issues on the rise and increasingly important to clients.

- Review estate planning strategies that address caring for companion animals and may involve drafting valid trusts.
- Gain the insight you need to help deal with potential class action suits.
- Explore the laws affecting service animals, including a focus on Title III of the Americans with Disabilities Act and the new RCW provision "Layla's Law."
- Familiarize yourself with criminal law and family law issues that your clients may need to address.
- Determine current legal developments regarding veterinary medical malpractice and veterinary licensing issues.
